WE NOMINATE

Howard LeGrand Canoune, a prominent figure on the Princeton scene for the past 11 years, who this week—to the surprise of his fellow members of the college-coaching fraternity — announced his resignation as Princeton University's head coach of swimming and his acceptance of a teaching-administrative post in the broader field of secondary education. Effective next September, the about-to-be 44 Canoune, a veteran of nearly two decades of coaching on both the inter-scholastic and intercollegiate levels, will assume his duties as chairman of the Department of English and Assistant to the Headmaster of the Eaglebrook School, Deerfield, Mass., a well-known junior boarding school with an enrollment of some 150 boys ranging from the sixth through the ninth grades.

In taking this giant step, Canoune is doing what he feels "comes naturally," for teaching, whether it is conditioning athletes for competition or struggling with a youngster's reading difficulties, is his first love. It is his conviction that his years here, combined with previous experience at Mercersburg Academy, have equipped him to cope effectively with the worries of boys who are starting the long grind that will be culminated by successful work in college. Canoune, for example, believes in the values of athletics, understands the relationship that must prevail between sports and studies on a university campus and points out that the insights he has gained as a teacher-coach will prove invaluable in helping boys plot balanced programs.

Canoune, a native of Plainfield, N. J., and a member of the Princeton Class of 1937, has over the years become a recognized specialist in the "science" of remedial reading. He has been affiliated with the University's Counseling Service on a part-time basis but has done his most meaningful work with a variety of non-university pupils, including nine-year olds, adults in their 20's and recently a man in his mid-40's. Another of his areas of special interest has been guidance, a sphere in which he has wrestled with the myriad worries—reading and study habits, educational and vocational objectives and personal adjustment—that sometimes threaten to overwhelm young men looking into the future.

An outstanding Princeton swimming captain, whose freestyle efforts "stood" as University records well into the 1950's, Canoune returned to Princeton in 1947 after five years of service at Mercersburg, where he turned out a succession of excellent teams and also taught in the Departments of English and History. Before succeeding Howard W. Stepp, now University Registrar, as head coach in 1953, he drilled the freshman squads, supervised instructional work for non-swimmers as well as intramural swimming and life-saving and organized the Junior Tigers, a comprehensive swimming program for "University children." Among his off-campus activities have been the founding of the Princeton Dog-Training Club, a leading role in Trinity Church affairs, the direction of a Boy Scout Troop Committee and officerships in professional organizations.

For accepting a challenge which "I believe will enable me to do infinitely more than I am now doing;" for insisting that athletics are a means to an end rather than an end in themselves; for solid achievement in education and in Princeton life; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

TIME MARCHES ON

But Not Princeton Issues. One short year ago, the principal problem in Princeton Borough was parking. In Princeton Township, residents were steamed up over a real "hot potato," the Edgerstoune "green belt" situation. For the community as a whole, the major issue of importance was water; specifically, the then-proposed Stony Brook reservoir.

How many Princetonians recall vividly those early May days, 1957? To revive a few memories, look back at what TOWN TOPICS had to say: "The plight of the Princeton parker, all-day as well as short-term variety, is destined for improvement in very short order' '. . . "one of the 'hottest potatoes' ever handled by the Princeton Township Committee will be handed back to the Township Planning Board for a series of important public hearings" . . . "a 1,520-acre Stony Brook reservoir, roughly five times the size of Lake Carnegie, was proposed this week for the Princeton area."

But this is May, 1958, the observant reader will say to himself, so who really cares about 1957? Well, the subject has been raised only to emphasize that time marches on and, yet, issues don't always trail along with it. Parking in Princeton Borough has improved, to be sure. The Edgerstoune hassle has been forgotten by most Township residents, to be sure. There will be no Stony Brook reservoir, to be sure—at least, not for a while, to be sure.

Despite these "to be sures," consider carefully Princeton in May, 1958. The Borough has the vital matter of Public Service land on its hands—a matter tied directly to the overall parking problem. The Township has more than a single "hot potato"—the endorsed widening of Snowden Lane and the question of two new schools—and certainly neither is completely removed from the "green belt" concept. The Princeton community has water on the brain, though no one has mentioned the ugly words "Stony Brook reservoir" for many months.

Walls Tumbling Down. Thanks to applied pressure by the Princeton Business Association and many individuals, Princeton soon will have additional, "key" downtown parking space. Razing of the old Public Service buildings on Witherspoon Street had been delayed pending acceptance of the right demolition bid and an attempt to lower the Borough's contribution to the related Urban Renewal project, but it got underway Monday. R. J. Heaton of Bordentown is doing the job for $1,185, as opposed to bids ranging as high as $8,000. Since development of the new parking area may be considered as a "supporting facility" to Urban Renewal, funds spent on the area by the Borough may later be figured as a municipality contribution to Urban Renewal achievements.

In the Township, that municipality's other, current "hot potato," the proposal that two schools be built there at one time (turn to story, page 3).

Gale Memorial Fund

For 38 years, the late William F. Gale sang with the choir of the Witherspoon Presbyterian church. As a memorial to Mr. Gale, who died March 17, a fund has been esablished to purchase a new grand piano for the church and to provide scholarship awards for promising music students. The piano will be available to anyone in the community for practice or recital.

"Bill Gale was a public-spirited citizen," declared the Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson, secretary of the new memorial fund committee. "We hope that the new piano will add to the cultural life of the community and encourage participation in the arts by all the young people of Princeton."

To raise money, the committee plans a series of entertainments. The first will be a lecture-demonstration by Clifford J. Gallant of Spanish and Flamenco dance, to be given Thursday, May 15, at 8:30 p.m. at Valley Road School. Mr. Gallant teaches Spanish dance at Skidmore and has studied under Jose Alvarez, protege of Escudero. He also sudied with Custodia Romero in Madrid.

Howard B. Waxwood, Jr. and Mrs. Luther Eisenmann are chairmen of the memorial fund committee. The Rev. David H. McAlpin and Mrs. T. Morgan Harris are vice-chairmen and Mrs. Christine Moore Howell and Rufus Mainor are treasurers. Eight residents of Princeton are acting as sponsors of the memorial. Those who wish to contribute should mail checks to the William F. Gale Memorial, 12 Spring Street.

10 billion gallon supply reserve, undoubtedly will reach New Jersey's voters as a November referendum and, if passed, will situate the projects in Hunterdon County, not in Mercer County near Princeton. But—and this point should not escape Princetonians extra bond money beyond the $37,000,000 earmarked for the reservoirs) will be devoted to purposes that include "studies of state ground water supplies and use of the Millstone-Raritan watershed in the future."

Moral of this story? Time marches on, which no one can deny, but some Princeton issues remain until resolved, once and for all (time).

PERSONALITIES

J. Richardson Dilworth, 141 Hodge Road, who at age 41 will assume the duties of president and senior financial adviser of Rockefeller Brothers, Inc., one of this capitalistic nation's largest firms engaged in the financing and supervision of new business ventures. Currently a partner in the investment banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., a position he will resign next month to join Rockefeller Brothers, Mr. Dilworth is director of a number of diversified industrial corporations, also makes time to head the Community Service Society and to help guide the Foreign Policy Association.

Carl Brown, 28 Birch Avenue, former Princeton High School track star, who was one of the quartet of hurdlers from Winston-Salem (N.C.) Teachers showing no respect for long-standing records in the Penn Relays. At Philadelphia's Franklin Field last Saturday, Brown ran the second leg for a shuttle relay team which broke the carnival record in its trial heat, rested for 20 minutes, came back and broke it again. (Time for the 440-yard timber-topping: a sizzling 55.6.)

Paul Steiger, 756 Princeton-Kingston Road, who won a baseball game for The Hun School while sitting on the bench. The Red and Black had taken a 6-5 lead over Pennington Prep when the opposition tied the score in the top of the last inning. Ascertaining that the run had been driven in by a batter who stepped to the plate out of turn, team manager Steiger notified the umpire of the illegal switch, the final out thereby nullifying the run and ending the game in Hun's favor.

ROUND-UP

FINANCIAL FACTS: Despite TOWN TOPICS' storified insistence that Princeton is a "recessionless" community, some 40 residents who commute daily to Philadelphia insist they are feeling the full effects of the current economic crisis . . . as a result of Pennsylvania Railroad curtailments, many of these unfortunates are now obliged to spend no less than two hours traveling each way to the City of Brotherly Love . . . of course, their biggest complaint (and a big one it is) concerns a nightly 45-minute holdover in Trenton.

Through Mrs. John Servis, chairman, the Princeton Hospital Aid Committee this week thanked the community for contributing $2,655 to the group's recent rummage sale and thanked Princeton Engine Company No. 1 for donating the use of its headquarters . . . Robert Nelson and Junior Skillman, co-chairmen of the Princeton Lions Club's annual broom sale, reported collection of $2,000-plus, a much-appreciated total and, while below expectations, an improvement of 25 percent over last year's proceeds . . . sponsors of the "Baby Gene Fund" in Kingston announced this week that their drive has topped the $700 mark, with additional contributions still anticipated for the one-year-old cancer victim.

MUNICIPAL MUTTERINGS: In spite of rainy conditions the first two days of this week, there will be no extension of Princeton's "Clean-Up Week," so all persons interested in getting rid of property detractors are urged to place them by curbside before noon Friday . . . the Borough Zoning Board has permitted variances that will allow the First Church of Christ Scientist to extend its building to the rear on Bayard Lane for Sunday School purposes . . . the church, therefore, will be able to disregard side yard, rear yard and coverage violations, providing it secures off-street parking places for at least 24 cars (possibly at nearby Miss Fine's or Miss Mason Schools).

Speaking of Bayard Lane, the Borough again has received a number of complaints about the narrowness of that major artery at its approach to Nassau Street and, having forwarded said complaints to the State Highway Department, is now awaiting a reply . . . the Township Committee meet behind closed doors with its engineer Wednesday evening, reportedly to map a complete public works program for municipal roads through '58 and perhaps into '59.

SHORT SHOTS: The April 4 murder in Princeton of Jacob J. Mayer, Trenton A&P store manager, remained unsolved as TOWN TOPICS went to press this week, though investigators continued to pursue a number of leads, including the hottest of recent leads in Chester, Pa. . . . there, detectives were questioning four men familiar with the general Trenton area who allegedly held up a Chester market on Monday in much the same manner Mr. Mayer's store was held up more than a month ago and may have used the car spotted at the Carnegie Lake death scene.

Kendall Park, an area which has received TOWN TOPICS for more than two months, gets special attention this week in Question of the Week on page 13 . . . Borough Mayor Raymond F. Male will substitute for Governor Meyner from 8:30 to 7 p.m. Sunday on channel 13, reporting on his specialty, "Civil Service On Trial" . . . the mayor's discussion will deal with the subject at all levels of government and will answer a list of charges against government employees and explode "myths about the public payroll" . . . readers who are wondering about NHUSSS, featured prominently in advertisements throughout TOWN TOPICS last week and this, need only wait until next week's issue for the answer. UP FOR THE VOTERS' APPROVAL: Sketch of the elementary school which the Township Board of Education proposes to build in "Johnson Park" on Rosedale Road. Another is planned for the Riverside area, and voters will be asked to back both at a referendum Tuesday—polls open 5 p.m. to 9 p.m.

TOPICS Of the Town

TIME FOR DECISION

School Vote Tuesday. With the Princeton Township school building referendum set for next Tuesday, the municipality's Board of Education has announced another public hearing on the much-discussed subject for 8 p.m. this Thursday in the cafeteria of Valley Road School. Voting on the measure to finance two new elementary schools in the Township will take place from 5 to 9 p.m. Tuesday, also at Valley Road School.

At Thursday's parley, voters will have an opportunity to question members of the Board regarding the need for the buildings, their design and the cost of the construction program. Preliminary plans for the structures will be on display, as will large site maps to aid in the discussion. Members of the Board's finance committee will be on hand with the group's findings on the effect of the building program on the Township tax rate.

In a statement this week, the Board pointed out that the referendum is worded specifically to authorize maximum funds that may be borrowed for the construction of two new schools. The plans themselves are still in an early stage of development and much additional study of detail will be necessary after the referendum before they are ready for bid-letting at the end of the summer.

As part of the Board's effort to keep all citizens fully informed concerning its plans and the results of its year of intensive study of the Township's educational needs, a comprehensive statement on the building program was mailed this week to all registered voters of the Township. This Thursday's hearing will be the final step in the Board's public information program prior to voters' action Tuesday.

Total Tab: $1,145,000. To finance the first phase of the proposed construction program, it will be necessary for Township residents to authorize the sale of bonds not to exceed $1,145,000, according to the Board. In the initial construction, each school will contain 10 classrooms and a kindergarten, the number necessary to accommodate the children already listed on the school census recently completed.

The necessary central facilities, such as the library, multi-purpose room, play areas, which will take care of an anticipated total capacity of 500 students, also will be erected during the initial phase.

According to the Board's best estimates, the final cost of each of the two schools—proposed for Johnson Park in the western section of town and the Riverside development in the eastern section — will compare favorably with the last Township educational addition, Littlebrook School. If any construction differences evolve, they probably will be related directly to the steady increase in school building costs since 1955.

The Board of Education, in its message to the voters, said, "The Board asks only one thing of you —VOTE." Primarily, it urged that each voter improve the Township's voting record in school elections. For the past eight years, fewer than 20% of the eligible registrants have participated in school elections.

"OPERATION ALERT 1958"

Civil Defense Exercise Set. New Jersey will participate fully in the nationwide civil defense exercise on May 6 and 7, according to Thomas S. Dignan, acting state director for civil defense and disaster control. Mr. Dignan, who lives on Springdale Road, said it is tentatively planned to have wide-scale public participation, although plans must be coordinated with neighboring states before a final decision can be reached.

Operation Alert, whose code neme is OPAL 58, has usually been held late in the summer. However, it was felt wider participation would be insured if it were scheduled in the spring, thus avoiding conflict with industry and school vacations.

The assumed attack pattern and its timing will not be revealed until the morning of the two-day exercise. Sealed envelopes containing information on bomb sizes, type of burst and ground zeros will have been distributed to local civil defense directors and coordinators.

According to assumptions drawn up by the Federal Civil Defense Administration, State Directors Association, Office of Defense Mobilization and the Department of Defense, a direct attack will be launched on the United States May 6. Anywhere from two to four hours warning will be given and the nation will be "informed" of the seriousness of the situation.

The following will be emphasized during the period of attack: maximum organizational participation, complete testing of local and state plans, the greatest possible use of intelligence information, operations after fallout and public participation drills. New Jersey's 567 municipalities and 21 counties have received a directive covering state activity for advance planning.

CLOSE SHAVES

Drivers Only Bruised. Township police investigated two accidents involving drivers with well-known Princeton names this past week, and happily were able to report that neither received serious injuries due to the mishaps. Involved in a glancing, two-car collision about 7 p.m. last Thursday was Delos (Dutch) Schoch, coach of Princeton University's varsity crew, while the only participant in a one-car upset at 3 a.m. Sunday was Leonard

Kraus Jr., son of the Borough fire department's secretary and Princeton Hospital's admissions officer.

Mr. Schoch, 44, of Ridgeview Road, was taken to the hospital in a patrol car, treated for facial cuts and multiple body abrasions and released following a sideswipe on Ridgeview that turned over his jeep. The operator of the other vehicle, Miss Joyce Creighton, 19, of R.D. 1, Monmouth Junction, was uninjured, according to Sgt. Richard Steiner and Patrolman Michael Lisi, who investigated the accident.

Mr. Kraus, 25, of 42 Harris Road, told Patrolmen Fred Porter and Walter Emann that he fell asleep at the wheel of his auto on Quaker Bridge Road. As he hit a curve near the intersection with Mercer Road, his vehicle swerved back and forth and finally rolled over. Taken to the hospital by the First Aid Unit's ambulance, he was treated for a variety of bruises and sent home.

FUND PANELS MEET

Budgets Scrutinized. Following the pattern of two previous annual sessions, the United Community Fund Budget Panel Conferences held last week in Princeton High School approved, almost without dissent, the budgets prepared by each agency participating in the Fund.

About 600 Princetonians were invited to serve on panels. Some 150 were able to appear for last week's session, listening to the presentation of each agency, questioning the agency head and members of its board of trustees, and probing to find out how money was spent, why it had to be spent, and whether it was too much or too little.

As they had in previous years, panel members questioned the low level of professional salaries in almost every agency. Most agency budgets showed requests for modest salary increases, because last year's panel members had also expressed concern at the low salary levels.

In the Family Service Agency panel, citizen participants saw a movie which described the case work method used by the agency in helping a family to solve its problems. Another attraction was the first presentation of the newest member of the Fund, the Child Guidance Center whose director, Dr. Charles Swift, told how his organization helped in the rehabilitation of disturbed children.

Panel members assigned to the YMCA and YWCA recommended approval of both budgets in spite of the fact that a total increase of $14,000 has been requested. Many panel members felt that the budgets were actually too low in terms of present day costs.

—Mae Day

If April's precipitation determines the quantity of floral decorations, Mae and her friends will be knee-deep in posies. The month that's just over began and ended on an unusually soggy note, with rainfall for the 30-day period about 60% above normal. Picturesque dividends can be expected.

May will begin, the Man reports, with temperatures about average (58 degrees at this time of year.) While he admits to having been surprised by the low pressure area that sneaked in from the Atlantic last Sunday and ruined his predictions for a good weekend, he is repeating them for May 3 and 4. Friday may be showerful briefly, he warned, but after that, May at its best.

PCD BY THE SEA

Come to the Fair! Princeton Country Day School's annual spring fair takes to the waves this year with a nautical theme. There will be "Shore Trips" (tractor rides, a Ferris wheel, covered wagon and pony rides), "Deep Sea Fishing," for the smallest passengers and "Climbing the Rigging" for older members of the crew. And there will, of course, be a Galley consisting of various refreshment booths and luncheon, which will be served from 12 noon.

On both sides of the street in front of the school there will be booths for games of skill, some of them in nautical disguise. The committee promises a selection of brand new contests and entertainment as well.

During the Fair, there will be a drawing for a portable television set for the benefit of the school's Building Fund. Students and alumni are in charge of ticket sales under the direction of Mrs. John E. Kerney and Mrs. H.C. Hoffman.

The Fair, which is a combined project of students, faculty and parent committees, is under the direction of Mrs. Joseph H. Wright, II and Mrs. Joseph E. Stevens, Jr. Mrs. Stanley C. Smoyer is in charge of "Shore Trips," Mrs. William H. Sayen, III is "Cruise Director" and Mrs. Gerald M. Lauck, Jr. is manager of the Galley.

Birth List. Fifteen children, including nine girls, were born last week to area residents at Princeton Hospital.

Parents of daughters are: Mr. and Mrs. Francis Staats, River Road, Belle Mead; Mr. and Mrs. Bernard A. News Of The THEATRES

"THE GONDOLIERS"

Savoyards Production Uneven, "No half and half affair will do," a line from a "Gondoliers" quartet goes, but it is a fairly accurate description of what appeared on the McCarter stage Friday night. The exuberance and vitality, so much the hallmarks of Gilbert and Sullivan's lighthearted operas, failed to come across the footlights adequately until the end of the first act. The principals handled their tasks with greater ease and proficiency than did the choruses, whose actions seemed for the most part forced and stilted.

In typical Gilbert and Sullivan fashion, the plot of "The Gondoliers" is a wealth of complications and the Savoyards should receive full credit for including an explanation of the plot in the program. The efforts of the Duke of Plaza-Toro to unite his daughter, Casilda, to her husband, heir to the throne of Barataria, after their marriage as infants, are crowned with success only when the "deus ex machina" (the heir's nurse, of course) arrives in the nick of time to bring Casilda together with her love, Luiz, drummer to the Duke. Before the breathless climax, two gondoliers with their brides from Venice, have taken over the throne until Don Alhambra, the Venetian grand inquisitor, can find the rightful heir.

As that renowned Spanish grandee, the Duke of Plaza-Toro, Lee H. Bristol, Jr. put across the comi-tragedy of a nobleman's poverty admirably in his opening song, but failed to do justice to the memorable patter song which describes his military exploits. Rochelle Erb as Casilda handled her singing assignments extremely well, as did Warren E. Dodson as Luiz. Both instilled a wonderfully light touch into their duets and love scenes.

The importance of rank and social niceties were beautifully conveyed by Virginia Heddinger as the Duchess of Plaza-Toro. Her characterization of the husband-pushing wife came across very well.

There was "no possible shadow of doubt" that William W. Lockwood, Jr. as Don Alhambra Del Bolero walked off with acting and singing honors. As the grand inquisitor who takes himself terribly seriously, he delineated the pompous and unctious character with ease and skill.

The quartet of would-be kings and queens of Barataria expounded with great verve the aspirations of the peasant girls and gondoliers to be "really truly" royalty. Ben Truluck and Francis A. Towne as the Palmieri brothers, and Carol deVries and Joanna Zaparyniuk as Gianetta and Tessa, their wives, conveyed the relaxed and happy mood of "sunny Italy" while retaining the stilted mannerisms intended by the composers.

In spite of these valiant efforts, the production did not come across as it should. The choruses seemed insufficiently rehearsed and in many cases the orchestra and singers were several beats apart. In trying to keep the pace brisk, the direction only succeeded in making the songs and staging forced. With the patter songs, a decreased tempo would have added to the comic aspects and also given the actors an opportunity to add individual touches.

The costumes and sets were a delight, and did much to enhance the mood of gaiety. The final "hurrah" should go to Tyler Gatchell as the page, who raced around the stage with great energy and high spirits.

Lehrer Big Lure

Princetonians interested in seeing and hearing Tom Lehrer at McCarter Theatre this Saturday evening have been advised by Richard Lukins, promoter of the one-performance appearance, to get their tickets in a hurry. As Town Topics went to press, only a few hundred seats were available and a sellout for the 8 p.m. songfest (McCarter capacity, 1077) seemed assured.

Lukins, an enterprising Princeton University senior, said Lehrer will fly here from a Friday night show in Detroit "with a repertoire that includes the lampoons he has already made famous, plus some brand-new numbers." The sardonic singer, who also writes his own material and plays piano in his own support, has promised "something for every depraved taste."

Promotor Lukins indicated most of the remaining tickets are priced at $2.70 and $3, though a few singles at $1.75 and $2.20 are available. Tickets may be obtained at the University store or the Princeton Music Center before the performance and at the box office at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, if any are left.

COMMUNITY PLAYERS

Staff Has Varied Experience.

"Belle, the Typewriter Girl," the Princeton Community Players' 25th anniversary production with entr'actes and entertainment, has behind the scenes a busy and vital staff. Some have been with the organization since its inception, others have started this season and all the years in between are represented.

Three generations of Princeton theatre are represented in the Childs family. Mrs. Margaretta Childs and her mother were in the Players' first audience and her daughter, Katherine, now participates in the group's activities. Mrs. Childs is in charge of costumes for "Belle," and her assistants Mrs. Jean Dunn, a recent arrival from Canada.

Mrs. Ruth Dorf arrived in Princeton after her Wellesley graduation just in time to do the make-up for the University League players prior to the formation of the Community Players, and is handling that department for the current production. L. Wendell Estey, who has worked for many years with the Ballet Society and the Periwig Club of the Lawrenceville School as well as the Community Players, is assisted in the choreography department by Mrs. Bernice Lampert who originally came to Princeton for the Players' Alec Templeton show.

The upcoming show, otherwise titled "The Vampires of Chicago," will find the Playmill turned into a cabaret on the nights of May 15-17 and 22-24. Refreshments will also be part of the evening's program.

CHILDRENS SERIES

"Dragon" Final Offering.

"Land of the Playful Dragon," the last in the series of four children's programs sponsored by the Children's Entertainment Committee, will be presented Thursday, May 8, at 3:30 at McCarter Theatre. It is the Cambodian version of the Cinderella story, but the ability to dance, not the glass shoe, wins the prince. According to Indochinese legend, all dancers are descendants of a goddess who married a mortal and therefore dancing is a profession of prestige and honor.

"Dragon" is the story of a little girl who is a talented dancer and her adventures at the royal court. In present-day Cambodia all such little girls are considered the true descendants of this goddess and win the privilege of living in the palace and marrying a prince when they grow up.

Tickets, priced at $1.50, 95 cents and 50 cents, are available by writing Children's Entertainment, 10 Princeton Avenue, or calling WA 4-5772 between 9:30 and 11:30 a.m. on weekdays. The remaining seats will be sold after 1 p.m. the day of the performance at the box office.

THEATRE INTIME

"Menagerie" Starts Thursday.

Tennessee Williams' first great stage success, "The Glass Menagerie," will be the next stage offering of Princeton University's Theatre Intime, commencing at 8:30 p.m. this Thursday in Murray Theatre on campus. Subsequent performances will be given at the same hour this Friday and Saturday as well as next Monday through Friday.

Stars of the fragile and poignant Williams concoction—a departure from the norm for Intime in view of the few male parts—will be Georgine Hall and Kathy Kelly of Princeton Community Players' fame and Fred Wardenburg, Intime president, and Dick Johnson from the University student body. Georgine's last role was the memorable one of "Mary of Scotland," while Kathy performed notably in "You Never Can Tell."

Tickets for Intime's major spring production, nominally scaled, may be purchased at the University Store prior to the Shop Expands. Center Stationers, in the Princeton Shopping Center, has stretched like one of its own rubber bands until it now occupies the whole Mall-to-parking lot area of its location. In this new space, you will find good sturdy grey steel filing cabinets (2-drawer model: $18.95), a small steel desk that would be fine for a very junior executive, and a row of bookshelves presently filled with Hardy boys books, dictionaries and so on, but soon to be filled also with a complete collection from Modern Library.

Up in front and along one side wall, are records for everybody who likes popular music and popular classics. There are record cases, too, and portable phonographs by Decca, RCA and Columbia (A 4-speed Decca is presently on sale for the agreeable price of $39.95.)

What else does any respectable stationery store have? Well, stationery, for one thing.

Greeting cards ("Happy Mother's Day to my nephew's sister's mother-in-law"), a Triple Treasure bank with partitions for serious savings (college, bonds); savings for fun (fill in your own blanks); and Santa savings; pastel desk sets for teen-age girls, and tweedy desk sets for boys; ink, crayons, Honeywell thermometers, world globes and stencil duplicating ink. You may also pick up a copy of Town Topics there any Thursday.

Here's the Rub. Kiddies who have chafed under the harshness of an adult towel for painful years may now have a towel of their own. We don't say they're any softer than daddy's, but at least they have appropriate pictures.

We liked especially the one with Grenadier Guards standing at attention across the border of the white terry. You may prefer children splashing each other in a shower, seals tossing balls back and forth, or nautical towels in red, white or blue.

All these are at Stone's Linen Shop, 20 Nassau. Hand towels for children can be used as nursery hangings if you prefer. They are linen of course, with old-fashioned boys and girls around a printed prayer.

Plastic-coated bibs, white, have nursery characters like kittens and mice, that squeak when you squeeze them. This helps get the carrots down. A large plastic kitty makes a place mat. He has a tag around his neck and you write your name on it. A plastic circular pinafore matches.

Mats for grownups include: coarse burlap laminated in plastic; ferns, dark red grasses, or bright blue(!) weeds caught in a cloudy plastic; bright turquoise breakfast dishes on a white kitchen mat.

Stone's branches out to Madras. Look at a gathered madras skirt with bolero, circular rubberized beach bag and tiny hat, all matching. Sheer cotton has been used for a classic peasant blouse from Hungary, embroidered in the traditional manner. You can also wear some other new things in the Stone collection: ruffled gingham scuffs, nylon scuffs with pink jabot, harem slippers with tinkling coins on the toes.

Brass dolphins hold one new soap-dish. Another new one looks almost like an ash-tray with the clear glass dish lining the brass.

Enhancement and Enchantment. The spring collection of trousseau lingerie at Edith's on Chambers Street is so extensive that we can give only a suggestion of what it contains. Most of the bridal ensembles are waltz length with extreme fullness, especially in the short puff sleeves and at the back yokes of the peignoirs.

There are pure whites, a charming set with blue satin ribbon insertion, another with forget-me-nots in pale blue over a white layer, and a white ensemble with yellow roses and yellow satin ribbon.

Dacron and cotton combine in many gowns, bridal and everyday. One is apricot with cap sleeves, another is white with triangles inserted at the hemline for extra skirt fullness. A baby-doll gown looks like red checked gingham (it's nylon and cotton) and has a white pocket, a side slit, and boxer shorts to wear underneath.

A gown that's even shorter, if this could be possible, has permanent pleats in its dacron and cotton. Top is square, bottom has bloomers.

Those past the baby-doll stage will welcome a white dacron and cotton gown, full length, tailored, with a deep V neck outlined in blue satin and decorated with a single blue satin applique.

HIGH SCHOOL CONCERT

Band and Orchestra to Play. The 33rd spring concert of the Princeton High School Band and Orchestra will feature a trumpet quartet and a harp solo, as well as a student conductor directing her own arrangement. The concert, which is open to the public, takes place this Thursday night at 8 in the high school auditorium.

The string orchestra under the baton of Louis Richards will present works by Offenbach, Handel, McKay and MacDowell. Miss Suzanne Rowles will play a harp solo. The full orchestra will play selections from "The King and I", Wagner's "March of the Meistersingers" and two other classical works.

The symphonetta band directed by Walter Horner, will present "Bugler's Holiday" by Leroy Anderson, with Thomas Clark, George Hunt, John Lindstrom and Christopher Marston as trumpeters. Miss Marilyn Harms will conduct her special arrangement for band of "God of Our Fathers." Malcolm Fry will play the trombone in "Come If You Dare" by Henry Purcell.

The concert band will conclude the program with these selections: "Flalandia" by Sibelius; "Serenata" by Leroy Anderson; Overture "Regina" by Skornicka, based on themes from Beethoven's Third Symphony; and "Onward Christian Soldiers" by Paul Lavalle.

PROCTER HALL CONCERT

Program Features Schubert. The final Procter Hall concert of the season will be given Sunday at 3:15 under the sponsorship of the Friends of Music. Miss Bethany Beardslee, soprano, and Earl Kim, pianist, will present Schubert's song cycle, "Die Schone Mullerin."

A graduate of the Juilliard School of Music, Miss Beardslee has sung contemporary music throughout the United States and has given numerous first performances of songs by Schonberg, Berg and Webern. She appeared in the world premiere of "Clytemnestra," a new dance by Martha Graham.

Mr. Kim, member of Princeton University's music department, has been the recipient of the Prix de Paris as well as the Guggenheim Fellowship in composition. His works have been performed both here and abroad.

MILBANK CONCERT

Mixed Chorus to Sing. The Bryn Mawr College Chorus and the Princeton University Chapel Choir will present Mozart's "Vesperae Solemnes de Confessore" and Haydn's "Mass in D Minor" Sunday, May 11, at 3:30 in the University chapel. This will be the 28th annual concert in memory of Elizabeth Milbank Anderson of New York.

Soloists include Miss Marjorie McClung, soprano, Miss Doris Okerson, contralto, William McGrath, tenor, and Richard Kuelling, bass-baritone. Carl Weinrich will conduct.

Tickets are available at the music department in Cho Hall and will be honored until 3:20 the day of the performance. After that time, non-ticket holders may obtain seats.

Quartets To Compete. The Orange Key Society of Princeton University will present its 11th annual quartet contest Saturday afternoon on the steps of Nassau Hall as part of the houseparties weekend program.

Representatives of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing of America will be the judges and will also sing a few numbers. The winning quartet will be guests of the Hotel Pierre in New York where they will give a Saturday night performance. Over 300 townspeople attended the event last year.

Princeton Girl in Concert. Miss Valerie O'Dea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Dea, will participate in a combined piano and choir concert at the War Memorial Building in Trenton.

The concert will be given Saturday and Sunday at 3. A student at Villa Victoria Academy, Miss O'Dea will play one of eight pianos.

New Lease On "Life"

The high school graduate who goes off to college will miss the copy of "The Saturday Evening Post" that comes to the house every week. The bride and groom may furnish a complete house but forget to take out subscriptions that will fill the new magazine rack. For all these magazine-starved people, there is hope.

Princeton High School mothers have a magazine subscription committee. You take out a subscription to any magazine for yourself or for a gift, and send the money to the committee. They send in your subscription to the publisher and keep a commission which goes to a scholarship fund for graduates of Princeton High.

This year, there will be $1300 for 1958 graduates. Two scholarships are given for students going on to college, one for a student who plans a teaching career, one for a student who took the high school general course and one for a student from the commercial course. These five awards account for $950. The rest of the money goes out in scholarships of about $100 to students who need a small boost.

You can send any magazine subscription to the committee any time during the year. If you get announcements of magazine specials, send them through the committee, too. For prices, call Mrs. Charles Widman, WA 4-4894. Send your checks, made out to Princeton High School Magazine Committee, to Mrs. Widman at 206 Moore Street.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

On Tuesday, May 6, we have the opportunity to vote on the two new school buildings recommended by our Township Board of Education. And, that is all we have to do. Our home work has been done for us by the talented and dedicated people who serve on the Board, on its Staff Advisory Committee of teachers and administrators, and on the Citizens Advisory Committee.

It is they who have studied census figures, calculated transportation costs, compared building estimates, juggled the problem of school size and location. In general they have had the courage and the energy to take responsibility for planning a school system that has both the philosophy and the facilities which Princeton expects for its youngsters.

As parents of four small children, we are delighted with the Board's plan. The two new eleven-room schools will be of a size that little ones can feel at home in.

The authorities tell us that principals will be able to administer them with a personal touch. And with two schools in the eastern section, one in the central section and one in the west, far fewer lower graders will have to spend two or three hours on a bus to get five hours of instruction.

Greenhouse Drive, vice-president of Research and Development for FMC's five chemical divisions, was in charge of the opening session, summarizing technical advances made at the Princeton Laboratory since its activation in July, 1956.

The major functions of the Princeton facility were described by Dr. William L. Davidson, recently-appointed Director of Central Research. During the two-day meeting, 27 technical papers were presented, with the sessions directed by E. P. Marcus, Dr. C. A. Heiberger and Dr. H. O. Stange.

A panel discussion highlighted the conference dinner Monday at the Princeton Inn. Panel members included Dr. Ott, Dr. Davidson, W. J. Riley and A. T. Loeffler of FMC, with Roger Williams, Jr., president of Roger Williams Technical and Economics Services as guest speaker.

Kindergarten Registration Set. All children who plan to enter Lawrence Township public school kindergarten in September must register next week at 9 a.m. according to the following schedule: On Monday, school nurses and kindergarten teachers will be at Eldridge Park School; on Tuesday, at Slackwood School; on Wednesday, at Lawrenceville Elementary School; and on Thursday, at Number Four School.

Children who will be 5 on or before November 30 of this year are eligible to attend. Vaccination against smallpox, diphtheria immunization and polio inoculations are required and a doctor's certificate so stating must be presented upon registration. No child will be accepted until the shots have been completed unless there is a religious objection or the family physician advises against them.

Camp Program Planned. Interested campers and parents are invited to a special program at the Green Street YWCA on Sunday from 3:30 to 4:30 to acquaint them with summer camping at the Central New Jersey YMCA Camp at Blairstown. This is the first year the camp has been open.

Any Princeton area girl from 15 to 18 may attend from August 10 through 23. Slides of the new camp will be shown at the meeting and all questions answered.

Barnard President to Be Here. Mrs. Millicent C. McIntosh, president of Barnard College, will speak on "Who Should Go To College?" at Monday's meeting of the Women's College Club to be held at Pierce Hall, Trinity Church, at 8:30 p.m. This will be an open meeting to which all interested persons are invited. A question and answer period will follow.

Dean J. Douglas Brown of Princeton will greet President McIntosh at this last College Club meeting of the year. Dr. McIntosh will be guest of honor at a tea Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Norman Stoll.

Research Center Is Occupied. Nine Western Electric staff members headed by Raymond P. Lutz, director, have moved into the company's Engineering Research Center on Carter Road. There will be approximately 50 staff members by the end of the year.

According to Mr. Lutz, most of the next year will be devoted to fundamental planning on projects for investigation and for the design of the new building. Laboratory equipment to conduct experimental work will be received over the next several months.

With Mr. Lutz in the new quarters are his three assistants, Lewis Bain, John Brown and James Hosford. Others are two assistant superintendents, W. S. Nagill and E. J. Eckel, four engineers, two secretaries and a maintenance man.

Scouts Camp Out. "Mexican opium smugglers" made their way across the "American order" and past the guards to deliver a "box of opium" last weekend as part of Boy Scout Troop 50's overnight camping trip. About 25 scouts took part in the "Wide Game" which was part of the scoutcraft activities on the trip.

The scouts left Trinity Church Saturday in five separate groups to make their way to the camping ground at Stony Brook by different trails. After two days of living outdoors, the scouts hiked back to the church Sunday afternoon.

Participating in the camp-out were Paul Dobin, Donald Metzger, Ronald Hurford, Tower Hubble, Jack Baker, Regan Kerney, John Bailey, John Beidler, David Tibbals, Barry Sullivan, William McLean, John Benson, Wally Magathan, Richard Lutz, Mark Masterton, Terrence Logue, Natheniel Thompson, Richard Sly, Buck Rayner, James Quarles, Charles Fish. Explorers serving as guides were John Dobbin, Mathew Miner, Terrence Coyle and Leslie Vivian.

Postoffice Contract Open. The Post Office Department has given the Princeton Post Office authorization to solicit competitive bids for a contract station in the Princeton Shopping Center for a two-year contract term: July 1, 1958, to June 30, 1960.

General information and bid forms may be obtained from Charles F. Murray, Postmaster. The deadline for obtaining these forms is Saturday.

Sacred Music Festival

Choirs from New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania will combine Sunday at 5 at Princeton High School to present a festival of sacred music. The program is part of a nationwide series of choral festivals directed by graduates of Westminster Choir College.

This year's festivals will be dedicated to Dr. and Mrs. John F. Williamson who are retiring from the direction of the college. More than 30 such festivals are scheduled this year with an estimated 10,000 singers participating.

The Princeton choirs singing on Sunday include Calvary Baptist, under the direction of J. Ronald Smith, and Second Presbyterian, conducted by David York. Miss Elaine Brown of Philadelphia will be guest conductor.

No Need To Pack

Released from the Mercer County workhouse Monday, after serving a 26-day sentence for using a car without the owner's consent and driving without a license in Princeton Borough, Alphonso Summers, 28, of 116 Witherspoon Street, didn't even bother to pack up his toothbrush and comb. He had a feeling he'd be back by nightfall.

Offender Summers was quite right. Princeton Township officers, who had placed a "hold" on him when the Borough action first took place, escorted him here from Trenton for a special appearance before Township Magistrate Louis R. Gerber. The magistrate immediately sent the defendant back to the workhouse for a month, 20 days for careless driving and 10 days for leaving the scene of an accident.

Summers got into trouble with both Princeton municipalities on March 31. He "borrowed" an auto in the Borough and drove it through town without a driver's license. Once in the Township, he drove off Princeton-Lawrenceville Road on Bruere's Hill and quickly departed the scene of his accident.

AND MAYBE THE TWAIN SHALL MEET: The fast-growing Kendall Park area, to Princeton's north, includes residents who already consider themselves a part of the Greater Princeton community—and others who feel they will never be Greater Princetonians. For instance, Loretta Marcoe (left) believes the twain shall meet, though she thinks the initiative for such cohesion rests with the residents of Kendall Park. Her neighbor and friend, Emily Stang, doesn't feel the twain should meet. Read their opinions—and those of several others—in Question of the Week below. (Richards Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: What do you think Princeton should do to make Kendall Park an integral part of the Greater Princeton community?

Location: Kendall Park.

Alexander Robinson, 11 Beryl Court, teacher at Princeton Country Day School: Thus far, the approach to Kendall Park has been purely economic. It is time that Kendall Park be included as an integral part of Greater Princeton by making it a part through support of the Hospital Drive, YMCA-YWCA and other important Princeton activities that must be supported by Kendall Park because we will use those necessary facilities.

Loretta Marcoe, 4 Nassau Road, housewife: I rephrase the question to read, "What can Kendall Park do to become an integral part of the Princeton community?" The weight of responsibility is ours!

Gardner W. Munro, 17 Campbell Road, social worker in New Brunswick: Is the attitude of Princeton that Kendall Park is just another development? If so, how can we become an integral part? Perhaps the Princeton stores should give us a rebate. The North Brunswick Shopping Center is cheaper in some instances than the Princeton Shopping Center. Princeton merchants ought to compare—and take positive action.

Byron Crandall, 5 Nassau Road, salesman at Wine & Game liquor store in Princeton: I think Princeton has a lot to offer Kendall Park in every way. If the people of Kendall Park would become more interested in looking into Princeton for what they want, such as theatre, lectures and clubs of all sorts, they would find whatever they want. On the other hand, Princetonians should extend their good will toward Kendall Park so Kendall Parkers can see what good things they have to offer.

Emily Stang, 79 Kendall Road, artist: Nothing!

Raymond F. Hawley, 32 Cambridge Road, federal civil service worker in New York City: To date, as a new resident in this community, I have no complaints. The limited contact I have had with the people of Princeton, both social and commercial, has been compatible. Already, I have a distinct feeling I am a member of the Greater Princeton community.

Elaine Wert, 27 Kendall Road, housewife: Actually, I think Princeton is doing very well by Kendall Park already. Through advertising, Princeton businessmen are aiming specials at us and some of us out here often go shopping in a group of five or six to take advantage of the bargains Princeton stores have to offer. They definitely should keep it up, for the women of Kendall Park—at least, the ones I know—are Princeton-conscious. I'd like to point out also that St. Paul's School, where our children go, has made every effort to accommodate Kendall Park youngsters, despite the overcrowding problem it has in common with most other schools. Free bus transportation is a good inducement, too.

Princeton "Suburb"

Kendall Park is a thriving subdivision along Route 27 (the old Lincoln Highway) about equidistant between Princeton to the south and New Brunswick to the north. Exactly 574 homes have been built, sold and occupied in the development so far, with another 300 scheduled for completion before the end of 1958 and still more Kendall-owned land available for future growth.

In view of Kendall Park's cross-section of personalities and great buying power, it is only natural that both Princeton and New Brunswick should be interested in including the relatively new area within their "greater communities." So far, Princeton would seem to have a slight edge, since the center of town is a mile closer to Kendall Park than the center of New Brunswick, its stores are easier to reach, something like 25 percent of the subdivision's residents are former Princeton residents and a number of Kendall children attend Princeton schools.

Several months ago, TOWN TOPICS officially recognized Kendall Park's growing importance to the Greater Princeton community by instituting full circulation coverage of the development by the paper. This week, via Question of the Week, an opportunity has been taken to ask Kendall Parkers what they think about the situation.

CAMPAIGN PLANNED TO OBTAIN BLOOD DONORS: The Princeton Blood Donor Service, a subsidiary of the Princeton Red Cross, will launch a drive for new members on Saturday, May 10, in an effort to meet the increasing needs of the community for this life-giving project. From the left are Dr. Thomas Harvey, Mrs. Jack Honore, Mrs. Marshall Dana, Mrs. Alan Tredennick and Dr. David Miller. See story below for additional details. (Town Topics Photo by Alan Richards)

BLOOD WANTED

Red Cross Needs Donors. The Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross and Princeton Hospital are looking for additional members for the Princeton blood donor service. A committee under the direction of Mrs. Alan Tredennick will canvass area homes on four successive Saturdays beginning May 10.

With the growth of the hospital, the need for blood has increased, and at the same time the list of donors has declined. Since December 1949, when the hospital and Red Cross began the program which supplies free blood to patients at the hospital, area residents have donated over 8,000 pints of whole blood, worth about $300,000.

Unlike other cities, where the individual requiring blood must pay for it or find friends or relatives to contribute, the Princeton blood donor service supplies the blood free. The Red Cross here keeps a file of blood donors and when the hospital's supply runs low, it requests the Red Cross to send donors to the hospital.

As new donors are signed up for the program, their blood is typed and a medical history is taken, and their hemoglobin is checked before each donation to be certain the individual is in fit condition. Interested persons should call the Red Cross chapter, (WAlnut 4-2400) to enroll.

RED CROSS CANDIDATES

Slate Announced. The nominating committee of the Princeton Chapter, Red Cross, has announced the following slate of candidates to serve for the 1958-59 year: James A. McFadden, Jr., chairman; Rubin Schwartzstein, first vice-chairman; Mrs. Carl Sjostrom, second vice-chairman; Mrs. Herrymon Maurer, secretary; Archie Lummis, treasurer and Joseph Catelli, Sr., assistant treasurer.

Rabbi Joseph H. Gelberman, chairman of the nominating committee, also announced the following nominees for Board of Directors to serve until 1961: Mrs. T. Morgan Harris, James Sandilos, William B. Bretnall and Dean Ernest Cordon. Dr. Thomas Harvey and Roy Vogt were nominated to fill terms expiring in 1959.

Nominations may also be made from the floor at the annual meeting or by petition submitted to the executive committee by not less than 15 Red Cross members. The meeting will be held on May 22 at 8:15 p.m. at the RCA Laboratories.

In addition to Rabbi Gelberman, the nominating committee was composed of Mrs. Frank Baldwin, Dr. Thomas Harvey, Leonard C. Johnson, Mrs. Herrymon Maurer and Dilman M. K. Smith.

PLAY PROBLEMS STUDIED

Panel to Discuss Recreation. Four members of the League of Women Voters will present the highlights of a survey on recreation opportunities in Princeton at the meeting of the Council of Committee Services next Thursday. The public session is set for 8:15 p.m. in the auditorium of the First Presbyterian Church.

Serving on the panel will be Mrs. Alfred Schwartz, Mrs. John Fine, Mrs. Frank Schlesinger and Mrs. Glen E. Schrank. Mrs. Schwartz headed the eight-member study group which interviewed representatives of virtually every organization which carries on recreation activities in Princeton.

"Our data are still not in their final form," Mrs. Schwartz said, "but we are glad to share our preliminary findings with other members of the Council of Community Services." Dr. Paul Tillet, chairman of the Council's Recreation Committee, will moderate the discussion.

Also at the meeting, the nominating committee under the chairmanship of Miss Katharine Lyons will present the slate of officers and directors. Proposed officers are: Mrs. Harold Sprout, president; Mrs. Merrill D. Peterson, second vice-president; Mrs. William Marvel, recording secretary; Mrs. Gabriel Almond, Mrs. Klaus Knorr, Mrs. Richard Pierson and Mrs. John V. Vine, directors; and Mrs. Everett P. Tomlinson, Mrs. Margaret Nevin, Mrs. Gordon Craig, Benjamin Shimberg and Mrs. Henry F. Sommers, nominating committee.

Mrs. Page Heads House Tour. Mrs. Thomas M. Page of Lawrenceville is in charge of the Open House Tour of ten area homes sponsored by the Radcliffe and Mount Holyoke clubs as a scholarship benefit. Committee chairmen for the May 17 event are being assisted by more than

Report from THE MAYOR

Willing To Move. The Mayor has received a letter from the Clerk and the Pastor of the First Baptist Church concerning the parallel street between Avalon Place and Wiggins Street. In the letter, Mrs. Anna B. Harmon and the Rev. Dr. William Parker report on a vote of the congegation to accept the recommendation of the Joint Boards of Trustees and Deacons. The Joint Boards had favored a proposal that would involve construction of a new church, parsonage, garage and parking space.

The Boards also had before them for consideration a number of other proposals whereby the street might be extended around the present church structure, either to the north or to the south. The church group does not consider the northern route feasible. It apparently prefers moving the congregation as an alternative to the extension of the street close to the southern limits of the present building.

Much study still remains before firm decisions can be taken. There is much community sentiment for maintaining Green Street as a residential area.

Many Baptist church members are reluctant to develop a new church if it means going in debt for a major part of the cost. It remains to be seen how much of the cost might be met under Urban Renewal.

The only suggestion on this was set forth by the executive director of the Housing Authority last winter at a public meeting of Mayor and Council. Nevertheless, the expression by the congregation will be helpful in future decision-making.

A New Library? A number of eltizens have suggested that the Borough consider the possibility of acquring the former Bell Telephone headquarters on Nassau Street as a public library. In order to get all the facts on this, the Mayor met a representative of the telephone company at the building last Friday and reviewed the possibilities. The Public Utilities Commission must approve the sale of the building, but if the municipality negotiated for its purchase, it would not be required to be the high bidder. Plans and specifications of the building have been made available to the Library for study by its Development Committee.

In view of possible Joint Borough-Township Library operation, the building might offer a satisfactory solution to the presently overcrowded library situation. The Township Mayor has been kept informed of these developments. Borough Council will consider the matter informally at its agenda preparation conference this week.

More Are Needed. The Red Cross Blood Donor Program has served the Princeton community exceedingly well. But now it needs more donors to match the need created by our rapid population growth.

Township Mayor Hurford, a frequent donor, was on hand last week when the Borough Mayor was typed at the Hospital. A special drive for new donors aimed especially at reaching new residents merits everyone's support.

A Busy Week. This is an especially busy week in the Borough. Clean-Up Week has municipal employees on a full schedule. The police are continuing their safety campaign.

The May 1 tax payments will keep the Collector's office humming. And Mayor and Council will be getting their homework done on a number of major municipal items. The "Tell it to the Mayor" session: Friday night, 7 to 10 p.m.

George III Is Dead

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

The following has been released as "a wide-open Letter to the Township Committee:"

It is always pathetic to see good intentions foiled by obtuseness. As it was with George III and his Loyal Colonies, so it has been with the gentlemen of the Township government and their subjects on Snowden Lane.

One day in a happy mood they decided to widen Snowden Lane, using money left over from something else. They then observed that if they stuck to regulations, they would have to cut down all the trees.

Being basically sensible and good-hearted men, they arranged a compromise by which Snowden Lane could be widened and the trees spared. In response to this really humane action, they no doubt expected the rustics to rush from their huts singing madrigals and pelting them with petunias.

They overlooked one little item however, which was that nobody wanted Snowden Lane widened in the first place. When the same peasantry swarmed on them brandishing pitchforks and petitions, they were deeply hurt. They had no intention of changing their minds, but they were hurt.

All this could have been avoided, as in the case of the late unpleasantness of 1776, by applying a new-fangled technique called Democracy. Now, gentlemen, Democracy is a system which involves listening to the pros and cons first and acting afterwards.

The Township technique, usually called Autocracy, involves acting first and ignoring complaints afterwards. It has its rewards all right, especially when benevolent, but popularity is not one; the peasants are inclined to hate the Lords High Commissioners.

Actually more is involved here than arguments over widening streets. The use and abuse of power by a local government is at issue.

If the Township had properly advertised its intention, and held a real public meeting before making decisions, at least no one could complain of secrecy and railroading. Obviously they can't hold a referendum every time they want to improve a road, but in a case like this, involving so many taxpayers and the whole looks and future of a growing neighborhood, there should at least have been adequate advance warning and public argument.

If the Township government is in fact legally able to do things like this this way, then it's high time the laws were investigated and changed. Certainly nothing of this sort should be permitted to happen again.

Things are bad enough in the hands of the honest and well-meaning; suppose the Township Committee should someday fall under the spell of a big contractor and actually be as dishonest as they seemed to be at the meeting on Tuesday? From the way they hedged and bluffed and evaded one would have thought that millions in boodle were at stake.

At best, government by local Planning Board and Engineer is a poor substitute for local self-government. George III is dead, gentlemen. His methods are antiquated.

Yours, more in anger than in sorrow,

NATHANIEL BURT

Build Riverside School First.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

In a few days, Princeton Township residents will be called upon to vote for or against a referendum authorizing the building of two new schools. Before the vote is taken, several matters of vital importance should be brought before the public and thoroughly discussed.

First, nobody disputes the need for new school construction in a rapidly growing Township. The only question is one of means—how much, how soon and where. The Board of Education, to whom nothing but praise is due for their labors, has nevertheless come up with an arguable proposition; and the voter is faced with the difficult problem of either turning it down entirely—which he is reluctant to do for obvious reasons—or giving an affirmative vote to something he may think is not the right answer. There is no alternative.

But an alternative should be made available to the taxpayer—that of building the Riverside School first, up to maximum size, and then waiting two or three years before putting up another school, perhaps on the Johnson tract or the Community Gardens site next to the present Valley Road School—a definite future possibility.

This was the Board of Education's original thought, but their minds were changed largely because of immediate pressure for a school in the Western area (the long bus ride to Littlebrook) and a controversial 6% saving in building costs by constructing two schools at once—controversial because it cannot be guaranteed. The result of this thinking is a referendum for $1,145,000 and e probable steep rise in the tax rate within a few years instead of a gradual increase.

No doubt a school will eventually be needed in the western area of the Township. But the Rosedale tract has several serious disadvantages. Because of General Johnson's provisions, a costly access road (present estimate around $47,000) must be built into the property. This pretty thoroughly cancels out the original $1 cost.

Moreover, no younger child can walk to the proposed school with safety—Rosedale Road has fast-moving traffic, there are no sidewalks, no side access roads, and Edgerstoune residents, who will fight to prevent a road into their area, must either have their children walk on a path a considerable distance through a non-policed wooded area or ride them around via Stockton Street and Elm Road. The result may be that most of the children in the western Township will have to come by bus or private automobile, a saving in distance but not the financial saving we are led to expect.

Because of this situation, voters should be informed before the referendum of the cost of one big school versus the cost of two smaller schools and have the right to choose how their money will be spent. Under existing circumstances, there is no choice.

DRUM-BEATING

For Community Project. With only 15 days remaining before the deadline of its unusual civic contest, the Princeton Kiwanis Club this week emphasized the type of work being done by Kiwanians everywhere—to stimulate ideas for the competition.

Kiwanis International, now 43 years old, has specialized in community service and citizenship responsibility, development of youth activities, assistance to the handicapped, conservation, Canada-United States friendship, spiritual growth and the promotion of world understanding and peace.

In addition to rededicating themselves to these objectives, Kiwanians have decided, as their world-wide program for 1958, to mobilize support for adequate education, fight inflation, encourage efficiency and economy in government, back the attack on traffic accidents, expand opportunities for senior citizens, promote public understanding and qualified treatment of mental illness, sponsor community beautification and recognize worthy public service.

Edward A. Clohossey, chairman of the Princeton Kiwanis committee in charge of the club's current contest, said it is hoped the above mentioned points will offer a number of ideas for those still interested in entering the contest. To date, he said, more than 25 Princetonians have picked up application blanks with intentions of trying for the cash prizes being offered.

The Princeton Kiwanis Club will give $100 to the person who best answers the challeging question, "What is the most worthwhile community project for the Princeton Kiwanis Club to aid annually?" Of greater importance, the project outlined in the winning entry will be awarded $1000 this year.

Mr. Clohossey reminded prospective essayists that contest entries must be limited to 300 words or less and must be submitted no later than midnight May 15. They must be handed in with official application forms, available at Hinkson's, Zinder's, Skirm's Smoke Shop and Center Stationers in Princeton and at the Jigger Shop in Lawrenceville.

YWCA Begins Golf Classes. Golf classes will be offered by the YWCA in its adult spring term, with the first lessons scheduled for 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. this Thursday. John Brown will teach the advanced class at Springdale Golf Course and a golf clinic for beginners will be formed on request.

Other YWCA spring term activities include a Tuesday morning program for young mothers, complete with nursery school, including conversation courses in basic Russian, French, Spanish and English. There is also a Thursday "Drop-in Supper Hour" from 5 to 7 p.m. for members, with hostesses from the International Club, the Misses Barbara

FIRST HOME REGATTA

Compton Cup at Stake. A day that will bring several thousand to the banks of Lake Carnegie if May sunshine prevails will match 21 crews of six colleges Saturday in the first of three big spring regattas set for Princeton. The Carnegie Cup (Cornell, Princeton, Yale) is scheduled for May 10, while the Eastern Sprint Championships with nearly a dozen colleges entered will be staged here on May 17.

Instead of entering this Saturday's race unbeaten, Princeton's highly-touted heavyweights will have the burden of proof on them. Their length and a half triumph over Navy in the first race of the season installed them as favorites to retain the Childs Cup last weekend, but they fell a surprise victim to Pennsylvania on Philadelphia's Schuylkill River.

Off its impressive victory over Syracuse in its first race, Harvard ranks as the favorite to regain the Compton Cup which Princeton won in 1957. The varsity affair figures to be a duel only between the Crimson and the Tigers, with Massachusetts Tech and Rutgers out of the picture. (For a complete schedule of Saturday's 150-lb. and heavyweight races, see box at right.)

Tigers Need Polish. Equipped with more power and ranginess than many a Princeton crew, the Tigers showed in losing to Pennsylvania last Saturday that they are short on ability to get the proper run on their boat. A length behind the Quakers with a half mile of the mile and 5-16 distance to go, they took the beat all the way from 36 to 42 in a vain effort to catch the victors.

At that extremely high pace, a port oar caught a crab 200 yards from the finish and Penn could coast home by a full length. To underscore the improvement that is hoped for this weekend all along the line, Columbia's junior varsity and freshman crews finished ahead of the third-place Princetonians, with Penn first in all three Childs Cup races.

Lightweight Streak Broken. A loss by ten feet to Cornell on New York's Harlem River Saturday ended the string of 21 consecutive victories compiled by Princeton 150-lb. crews. The Ithacans led all the way, with Columbia third. Success in the junior varsity race was Princeton's only rowing triumph of the afternoon.

Unbeaten during the latter part of the 1955 and all of the '56 and '57 seasons, the 'fifties had won two national championships and two Thames Challenge Cups at Henley, England. They, too, will be underdogs Saturday against

Saturday's Crew Schedule

Seven races, beginning at 3 and continuing at 15-minute intervals, are scheduled for Lake Carnegie Saturday as the 150-lb. crews of Pennsylvania and Princeton compete for the Wood Hammond Cup and the heavyweight shells of Harvard, M.I.T., Rutgers and Princeton seek the Compton Cup. Princeton is the defending trophy winner in each instance. The schedule:

(Penn vs. Princeton)
3:00 p.m.—Freshman 150's
3:15—Jayvee 150's
3:30—Varsity 150's
(Brown, Harvard, Princeton)
3:45—Third Varsities
(Harvard, MIT, Rutgers, Princeton)
4:00—Freshmen
4:15—Jayvees
4.30—Varsity

Penn's lightweights, victors last week over Navy.

Baseball vs. Rutgers. One of the few teams it has beaten this season will be here Saturday at 2 to face Princeton's hard-hitting weak-fielding baseball team. Rutgers, a 7-3 victim last month, will be the opponent.

An unbelievable total of 17 errors—five of them at shortstop—last week cost the Tigers a chance to win three games in a row. In each case, they blew comfortable leads—5-0 against both New York University and Brown and 6-2 against Harvard. As matters turned out, the N.Y.U. contest was a 7-7 tie, Harvard rallied in the eighth and ninth to win, 7-6, and the Tigers finally outlasted Brown, 6-5, in 11 innings.

Herm Belz was the victim of six errors at Cambridge, including one play in which Tom Morris let a single go through his legs in left field and shortstop Tommy Frost then threw the relay over home plate. That scored two, brought the Crimson even and set the stage for the home team to win in the last of the ninth. It was almost the same story at Providence, where errors helped Brown pull from a 5-0 deficit in the eighth and ninth to a 5-5 tie, but in the 11th, Morris tripled, Garry Thrasher scored him on a sacrifice fly and reserve hurler and Bill Wolverton nailed down the victory.

Only bright spot in the Tigers' picture is their new-found hitting ability, paced by Mike Ippolito and Gene Locks, the latter now back at third base after an injury to his leg in an automobile accident. Ippolito's four triples last week were the best display of long-distance hitting the Tigers have had since Will Prior and later Royce Flippin were around.

The Tigers (2-2) began the week in a four-way tie for fourth place in the Eastern League standings, and had a game against Penn at Philadelphia on Wednesday. The Quakers were third with a 2-1 mark, while Harvard (4-0) and Dartmouth (3-0) were leading the parade.

Other Sports. Princeton's lacrosse and track teams were the victims of one-sided defeats last weekend, but the picture will be brighter from here in for Ferris Thomsen's ten. The rugged opposition it has experienced against the best teams in the nation is figured to prepare it for defense of the Ivy Title it won a year ago.

Army was a 17-9 victor on University Field last Saturday in a game which the cadets dominated throughout. They held 4-1 and 8-1 leads after the first two periods and then enjoyed a six-goal spree after the intermission. Penn on Wednesday and Harvard at Cambridge on Saturday of this week launch the Tigers' quest of a second straight Ivy crown.

It was Harvard by 86 1-3 to 55 2-3 in track, as Princeton took just three first places and tied for a fourth in palmer Stadium. Sprinter Dick Edmunds looked impressive for the freshmen in winning the 100 and 220 and ripping off a 47.6 anchor leg in the mile relay, but the class of 1961 lost its meet to the Crimson by nearly 40 points. Both Princeton entries are in for more of the same at New Haven this Saturday.

Princetons' golfers won two matches last week, trimming Harvard, 5-2, and blanking Brown 7-0, at Cambridge. The tennis team topped Dartmouth, 7-2, but lost to strong Presbyterian, 6-3. Weekend matches bring Yale's golf team to Springdale and send the tennis team against Harvard at Cambridge. The 7-3 mark credited to Harry Kinnell's golfers is the best record compiled by a Princeton varsity this season.

BACK ON BEAM

Little Tigers Triumph. After two straight defeats at the hands of versatile Trenton teams, Princeton High's varsity baseball club bounced back to record a neat victory this past week, thereby evening its season's mark against intracounty opponents. The Little Tigers topped Hamilton's Hornets, 5-2, and did the job with authority.

Captain Bryce Chase, improving steadily as an all-around ballplayer (see "We Congratulate" box, page 20), slammed the most important hit of his PHS career to date to break up the contest. With the bases loaded in the second inning, by virtue of a walk, George Wilson's single and a Hamilton error, Chase came through with a solid triple, good for three runs.

Princeton picked up single tallies in the first and third frames, balancing the runs made by the home team in the third and fourth rounds, so the PHS captain's long blow really was the pivotal one of the afternoon. Righthander Bob Walker, hit hard by Trenton High in an earlier test, limited the Hornets to five well-scattered safeties while his teammates were touching three Hamilton hurlers for a half-dozen. Chase, with two-for-three, was the only player on either club to collect more than one hit.

This Monday's scheduled return engagement with THS here was rained out—perhaps fortunately, since Jack Lackey, the Little Tigers' starting pitcher, missed school that day—and will be slated sometime during May. For the immediate future, Princeton will meet Long Branch this Friday and Lawrenceville next Wednesday, both out-of-town games.

MIDGET LEAGUE

Rain, Rain Go Away. Plagued by inclement weather during its first week of action this spring, the Princeton YMCA-sponsored Midget League now is looking forward to its first four full days of scheduled play next week. Those games postponed by rain last week will be made up as time permits before the campaign's close in mid-June.

Next week's slate, all contests due to start at 6:15 p.m.: Monday—Giants vs. Braves, Mercer Field; Pirates vs. Dodgers, Princeton High; Cardinals vs. Redlegs, Princeton Country Day; Tuesday—Red Sox vs. Tigers, PHS; Yankees vs. Athletics, Mercer; Orioles vs. Indians, FCD; Thursdays—Dodgers vs. Cards, Marquand Park; Giants vs. Pirates, Plainsboro; Braves vs. Redlegs, PHS; Friday—Yankees vs. Orioles, Valley Road; Red Sox vs. Athletics, Marquand; Tigers vs. Indians, PHS.

BOWLING NOTES

Sparked by Ted Drake's games of 224 and 202, Belle Mead picked up four points in its match this past week, enough to claim the 1957-58 season's title in the Tri-County Firemen's League at Princeton Recreation Center . . . with only one night of bowling remaining, the victors (with a total of 125 wins) cannot be overtaken by second-place Princeton Engine Company No. 1 (117 wins), which failed to score in its latest outing . . . Kingston (115) still has a crack at the runner-up position, while eleventh-place Hook & Ladder No. 1 (79), scheduled to battle Hook & Ladder No. 2 (77), must have a good night to avoid slipping into the loop's cellar . . . aside from

BRYCE CHASE

PHS Baseball Captain

Last week was the most significant week to date in the baseball career of Bryce (Goose) Chase, captain and centerfielder of the Princeton High varsity. Against Trenton Catholic, he committed his first error in four springs at PHS. Three afternoons later, in a game with Hamilton High, he stroked his most authentic hit in four seasons a three-run triple that meant the verdict.

Influenced by an ill-located rock, the record-marring miscue didn't amount to a great deal. But the timely three-bagger, which raised Chase's .58 batting average to a healthy .400 (four-for-10), amounted to a whole lot. It indicated that the captain-by self-admission, the club's best hunter, though ra- by much more at the plate—has gained hitting confidence 'fis hard work last summer w - a Marine team in Virginia, where his father was stationed, has begun to pay dividends.

Of primary importance, Chase's new-found confidence has provided his teammates with a real lift. Little wonder he is more and more often called "Goose," a nickname he once reserved for those competing with him—"to sort of pep 'em up." And, as a result of the prevailing atmosphere, the Little Tiger leader predicted this week that his team will "really do things the rest of the year."

Chase, 17-year-old son of Professor and Mrs. Harold Chase, has been active in soccer and basketball as well as baseball at Princeton High. Because of these sports, and his high regard for the scholastic offerings here, he has lived alone in an apartment this school year following his parents' transfer from Princeton University to the University of Minnesota. Two weeks hence, he will know if his decision to stay behind has resulted in admittance to Princeton, or whether he will be enrolling at Minnesota come fall.

No matter what happens, Bryce Chase will long remember the day in his freshman year when he broke a knuckle in his right hand and lost a chance to play shortstop for PHS. He was converted to the outfield—a conversion that could be called successful after last week's "big triple."

Drake, top keglers among the firemen this past week were Ike DeHart, with games of 209 and 201, and Norm Luck, who registered an even 200 . . . Joe Perpetua's 209 and Pete Costas' 207 were the lone 200-plus scores in Princeton "A" League competition, which saw Tiger Garage (72) maintain a terrific 20-point bulge over Farr Hardware (52).

In the hotly contested Princeton "B" League, pace-setting Tiger Bus (66) gained a couple of points on Titus Motors (62), while Maul Electric (55) found Cifelli Electric (54) challenging its No. 3 notch and Jefferson Plumbing (50) tied the Plainsboro Lions in the No. 5 slot . . . Impressive marks were recorded by George Sella, with a 649 series (215-210-224), and Howard McWhorter, with a 613 series (214-215-182), plus Dave Wilhur, 232, Fred Lehnert, 224, Rudy Ehart, 207-213, Bruce Ferguson, 209, and George Sickel, 204 . . . Kingston Construction (54) broke a first-place deadlock with Nassau Del (52) in the Industrial League, while the Reformers (50) held a close third and Glenmore (46) emerged from a fourth-place tie with Nassau Service (44) . . . leading individual performers were Rudy Lehnert, 227, Carlo Perontoni, 218, Doug DeCicco, 216, Flash Fliszar, 205, and Ed Lemore, 205.

Among the distaff howlers this past week, Betty Kleiber's 209 game and Nassau Service's match-sweeping spurt, both in the Women's Industrial League, highlighted activity with two weeks of the season to go . . . as a result of its fine showing, Nassau Service (102), whisked by Cifelli Electric (95), which won nothing . . . other high scorers were Carole Harris, 192, Lillian Burrough, 192, Peg Brown, 191, Margaret Drummond, 185, Helen Lewis, 176, and Barbara Danser, 174 . . . In the Princeton Women's Bowling League, also with two weeks remaining, Town Topics (82) maintained its five-point spread over the Bermudians (77), who are still being challenged by the Alykatz (73) and the Missettes (70) . . . Harriet Maxwell's 188 topped the week's soloists, followed by Betty Jane Harris, 184-167, Barbara Danser, 176, Marge Daniels, 174, and Marilyn Silvester, 174.

MURRAY THEATRE

Freudian Fable Finalized. At midnight this Friday and Saturday, Murray Theatre on the University campus will be the scene of an offbeat psychological inquiry into the nature of the "ideal" American town. The fertile spring weather and the show's subject matter, according to its backers, will harmonize to produce "perfect midnight entertainment."

Presented by the Producer's Fund, "Mother Loves Me" will offer book, music and lyrics by Clark Gesner, Princeton sophomore who already had made his mark as a Triangle Show participant. Grenville Cuyler, another sophomore, is the Freudian play's director, with Triangle and Savoyard veterans making up the cast. Tickets, at $1 apiece, are on sale at the University Store and Murray's box office.

UNUSUAL SHOW

By Author of "12 Angry Men." Sponsored by the Women's Association of the First Presbyterian Church, a dramatic sociological play, "Thunder On Sycamore Street," will be given at 8 p.m. this Friday in the auditorium of Princeton Theological Seminary. The show will be open to the public without admission charge.

Directed by William Brainer, faculty member at the Seminary, the drama's cast will be composed largely of First Presbyterian Church members and will cover action in three different homes, one of which has been purchased by a family that is considered undesirable by its neighbors. Reginald Rose, author of the original presentation, also wrote the well-known stage and motion picture success, "12 Angry Men."

Townspeople participating in the offering will be William Duryee, Miss H.O. Rose, the Rev. Mr. Walter Wagoner, Mrs. George McCluskey, Gerald Speedy, Bernard Weise, Mrs. James Smylie, Elmore Day, Miss Margaret Howland, Alan Gaylord, Dr. Oscar Sussman and Mrs. Lefferts Loetscher. Two children's roles will be handled by Peggy Sussman and Joseph McKee, while Miss Mary Willcox and Mrs. William K. Evans are assisting the director.

PERIWIG SHOW

Highlights will be two original songs, "Some Day" and "Once Upon A Dream," and a half-dozen of the most popular ballads from the best shows of the organization's first century.

Directed by John D. Humason, Case Morgan and John Howard, "The Near Miss" also will feature a number of dance routines, supervised by Miss Eleanor Coffee of the Juilliard School of Music with Robert Cliquennoi and Lawrence Estey. THE PLAYHOUSE

The Long, Hot Summer (May 1-3) is a fairly long (115 minutes), fairly "hot" (sex as well as barn-burning) movie about a small Mississippi town, which is the scene of much excitement this particular summer. Paul ("Somebody Up There Likes Me") Newman, cast as a hard young man with a tragic childhood behind him, arrives on foot—without funds—and sets out to contest land-baron Orson Welles' power in the community. Naturally, in the course of the challenge, his intimate involvements include Joanne ("Three Faces of Eve") Woodward, unwed (at 23!) daughter of the shady Welles; Anthony ("A Hatful of Rain") Franciosa, Welles' weakling son, and Lee ("A Face in the Crowd") Remick, lucious wife of Franciosa who is much-admired by many men due to her lusciousness and her husband's weaknesses. Well-acted by all principals, notably veteran Welles, and deftly produced by Jerry Wald, "Summer," based on a number of works by William Faulkner, is interesting, lively and surprisingly stimulating. As the town's Wald-in emotions are being bared, many moviegoers may think they are viewing a continuation of "Peyton Place"—but who's complaining?

Teacher's Pet (May 4-10) proves happily that Clark ("Run Silent, Run Deep") Gable is capable of doing just as well by comedy as he is by full-blooded drama. In this light story of relative little plot value, he plays a hard-driving, self taught city editor who, with actual newspapermen cast as his staff, succeeds in making the newspaper sequences as believable as they are amusing. Doris Day portrays the teacher of a night class in journalism and, while it's difficult for her to convince anyone she's a journalism teacher, she manages to be delightful in a running battle with Gable, who dislikes journalism schools—for a while, at least. Of note, Miss Day goes through another motion picture without singing a tune, thereby underscoring the versatility that made her a leading box office attraction. Gig Young is excellent in the major supporting role, a sersio-comic assignment, and Mamie Van Doren is conspicuously featured. All things considered, "Teacher's Pet"—produced and directed by the clever Periberg-Seaton combination and written by Fay and Michael Kanin—is a pleasant surprise, perhaps one of the best comedies that will come this way in '58. It's in Vista-Vision, too!

THE GARDEN

Witness for the Prosecution is a delightful mystery movie, recommended even for those Princetonians who have read the original Agatha Christie version, seen the Broadway production or viewed the Princeton Community Players' fine interpretation last fall. It's a real corker of a suspense drama—building beautifully as it goes along—and the double-twist ending is a plot gem. Much of the story unfolds in a wonderfully true replica of London's Old Bailey, where Leonard Vole (portrayed ably by Tyrone Power) finds himself on trial for the murder of a susceptible and wealthy middle-aged woman, but effectiveness of the trial scenes heightens the suspense despite limitations which might well have diminished it. That the entire film—and particularly the Old Bailey Scenes—are so engaging is due in large part to Charles Laughton's mannered acting, the mannerisms controlled here for calculated humor and sympathy. He is the crusty, gracious and rapier-minded English barrister, master of criminal defense, who, in spite of a critical heart condition and the warnings of his doctors, becomes interested in the murder case. Marlene Dietrich holds her own as the alibi-switching Mrs. Vole, while Elsa Lanchester is outstanding as Laughton's bossy private nurse, the foil for most of his humor. Other significant atributes are Billy Wilder's moving direction and some of the best photographed trial sequences on film.

Mark of the Hawk (May 5-10), filmed on location in Africa and in England, deals in straightforward fashion with the deadly serious problem of racial difficulties between blacks and whites in South Africa. Naturally, much of the movie is devoted to passages of expository and argumentative dialogue necessary to emphasize the picture's thematic messages, and often these sequences seem a bit drawn-out. However, there is also a considerable amount of action, including attacks by native terrorists, without which the film would necessarily bog down in preachment and argument. Sidney Poitier, a sensitive and understanding performer, is grade-A as the embattled Negro legislator who is the story's protagonist. Earth Kitt, the attractive and accomplished songstress-actress, handles the role of Poitier's wife with conviction, though she is obliged render an utterly incongruous and unnecessary song, "This Man Is Mine," after her husband's arrest. John McIntire and Juano Hernandez deserve mention for their appealing performances in support.

BAD WEEK

PHS Trackmen Falter. Despite the early-season hopes and prayers of Coach Win Niles, track stock failed at Princeton High this past week. In a meet with New Brunswick, a "deep bench" outfit, the Little Tigers lost, 90 to 26, for the worst PHS setback since Niles joined the track staff back in 1935. Last Friday, Princeton's only quartet entry placed eighth among 11 teams in its mile event at the Penn Relays and here this Tuesday afternoon, Long Branch High defeated PHS, 69-48.

Only Wyn Jennings excelled for the Blue and White runners. He won both the 100 and 220-yard dashes in the New Brunswick and Long Branch meets, to give him three straight doubles in dual competition this season. Roger Nicol tied for first in the pole vault against the Zebras, for the only other first-place points that miserable afternoon, while other winners against the Branchers included Doug Hayes in the high jump, Ridge Applegate in the javelin and Nicol again in the pole vault.

This Saturday, the Little Tigers will participate in the annual Long Branch Relays. The mile foursome of Marty McGuinn, John High, Ken Cooper and Jim Kennedy will attempt to better their eighth-place effort in Philadelphia, where Lincoln High triumphed in the good secondary school time of 3:27.1.

RUN WINS, THEN TIES

Pennington Prep Beaten. Rallying for five runs in the final two innings, Hun School's baseball team topped Pennington Prep last week, 6-5. Charlie Bennett was the winner when the Red and Black pushed over three tallies in the last of the seventh.

Against Tower Hill in Wilmington, Del., on Tuesday, the Weather Man alone kept the Johnny Huns from their fourth in a row. With Bennett limiting the home team to four hits and a lone run in nine innings, Hun broke away from a 1-1 tie with three in the tenth. Then the reins came before Tower Hill could bat, with the game ending as an official deadlock.

The Edgerstoune nine will meet Delbarton at home this Thursday afternoon and travels to New Hope to face Solebury on Tuesday. Hun won the first game with the Pennsylvanians, 5 to 1.

WHAT MAKES A GOOD ONE

Minister? Rabbi? Priest? What makes a good spiritual leader? According to people who answered a recent New Jersey Poll inquiry, he is first of all a man who "practices what he preaches." Over 20 per cent of the Poll's respondents put this quality first in answering the question.

Equally important to New Jerseyites who answered the question is sincerity; a spiritual leader must be sincere, with absolute faith in his calling. The statewide survey was made among people of all religious faiths and denominations and from all social and economic strata.

Five other qualities received from 11 percent to 18 percent of the total response: (1.) he must be able to preach a sermon you can hear and understand without rambling or repeating himself; (2). he understands the problems of people in trouble; (3.) he looks after his flock and tries to serve his community; (4.) he has a pleasing personality; (4.) he visits his congregation.

Scattered mention was given to ministers who are broadminded and up-to-date, good with young people, humble, hard-working, patient, intelligent and able to explain what the Bible means.

From one anonymous source comes the terse comment: "A good spiritual leader should not smear the members of his congregation."

Middleton To Leave

The Rev. James H. Middleton, pastor of Princeton's Calvary Baptist Church, will leave Princeton on January 1, 1959, to accept the post of Director of Religion at Wayland Academy, Beaver Dam, Wis.

In his new position, the Rev. Mr. Middleton will oversee the spiritual activities of a co-educational student group of preparatory school age. There are 265 boys and girls at Wayland, a school which is operated under Baptist leadership. Mr. Middleton will hold daily chapel services, teach Bible courses, guide discussion groups and do general counselling work.

The Baptist minister, who is also advisor to Baptist students at the university, was called to Princeton in the spring of 1955 and preached his first sermon on May 1 to a Calvary Baptist congregation that had only been in existence for two months. A Pulpit Committee is being formed to seek his successor.

FINE FAMILY LIVING

Nestled into the side of a hill and set off by heavenly landscaping, this charming yellow clapboard gives the effect of a low ranch. Actually, it's on two floors and perfectly planned for a large family. On the first level is a large living room with fireplace and a bedroom wing with four big bedrooms and two baths. On the lower level is a nice dining room, large cherry paneled den, playroom, cheerful kitchen, powder room and maid's room and bath. Extra touches are everywhere: attic fan with vents in most rooms, hi-fi wiring from den to brick terrace, and living room, immense storage closet and storage room under the garage, china cabinets opening into both dining room and kitchen, master dressing room, etc. Comfortable, attractive and clean inside, unusually lovely outside, the house is on one acre which slopes down to a brook and up through trees on the other side. The view from the picture window is really a picture!

NICE HOUSE,

BUT OH THAT SETTING!

for $35,000

This is a pleasantly rambling gray ranch house with many nice features inside, but the outside deserves a real rave. Two acres slope down through lovely big bird-filled trees to a winding brook; and the openable picture windows in the large living room give full time view of the setting. Three bedrooms with big closets, 1½ baths, a nice kitchen with laundry and eating areas, full dry (rare at this moment) basement, breezeway and attached garage (easily and inexpensively convertible into extra living space) give an idea of the comfortable layout. To top it off, rural setting notwithstanding, the house is still conveniently near schools and shopping.

if you're a
claustrophile,
DON'T CALL!

We have nothing to say to people who like cramped spaces. But if the feeling of walls pressing in on you is something you prefer to live without, let's talk. We have a house that has plenty of room and light and air. Surprisingly enough, you don't have to be a bank president (or even his son) to own one. It actually provides more space for less bucks. We'd like to explain and show you our concept of a new type of light-hearted living that we deeply believe in — the Techbuilt House
